The quake shook the 2,650-mile-long mountain nation from end to end, but it hit hardest in the central provinces of Aconcagua, Valparaíso, Coquimbo and Santiago, where a third of the South American nation's 7.8 million people live.

Dead and injured were reported in dozens of cities. Scores of fires broke out.

The upheaval was the worst of the quake-prone nation has suffered since May 1960, when an earthquake and tidal waves killed an estimated 5,000 people.

Condition of Cardinal Meyer Is Worsening
CHICAGO (AP) — Physicians today expressed concern over the somewhat deteriorated condition of Albert Cardinal Meyer, 62-year-old archbishop of Chicago, who has developed a blood clot in his left leg.

The prelate, who underwent surgery for removal of a malignant brain tumor Feb. 25, no longer responds to questions asked by Mercy Hospital nurses and visitors, a hospital spokesman said.

The blood clot was discovered in Cardinal Meyer's left leg Saturday. A spokesman said that further surgery was not contemplated.

Humphrey Says Congress to Pass Voting Bill
DETROIT (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey expects Congress to pass a voting rights bill representing "the collective will of the vast majority of all Americans" by May 1.

Humphrey made his comment to newsmen after receiving the Hugo Schaefer award from the American Pharmaceutical Association for "outstanding voluntary contributions to the profession of pharmacy."

The vice president discarded most of his prepared text in speaking to some 2,000 delegates at the opening session of the pharmaceutical convention in Detroit's Cobo Hall Sunday.

He told reporters, however, he stood by every statement in the text, which said:

"We see the day not far off when Congress will pass a voting rights bill. This bill will not be a bill to impose the views of the North upon the South, nor the views of Democrats upon Republicans, nor the views of Negroes upon whites."

"This bill will represent the collective will of the vast majority of all Americans."

"And therein lies its strength and its promise for success — not merely success in passing the Congress and law, but success in righting wrong without violence or bloodshed."

The voting rights bill was urged by President Johnson after Alabama state troopers charged with clubs and tear gas into a group of civil rights demonstrators, and a white minister was beaten fatally on a street in Selma, Ala.

Humphrey told newsmen he agreed with the President's denunciation last week of the Ku Klux Klan, four members of which have been arrested in connection with the murder on an Alabama highway of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, of Detroit who was helping in the civil rights movement.

The KKK, he said, is an "evil spirit covered up by a white sheet" which has brought disgrace to the areas in which it operates.

"It has been an evil force in America since its beginning," Humphrey added.

Humphrey paid a five-minute visit to the grief-stricken Liuzzo family on his way to the pharmaceutical convention.

"It was a private thing," he said later. "I wanted to convey my own expressions of sympathy, distress and sorrow."

ANDREW MARSHALL

Date-Line
By Ele and Walt Dulaney

Dear Walt: I got a laugh out of the letter you printed from that Marine. He said the service would make a man out of a boy. I wonder if he's read this famous letter from a new draftee to his father?

Dear Dad: I've learned to make a bed with the best of them. I do my own laundry, ironing and mending. Every morning I sweep and mop, and once a week we house-clean and I wash the walls and windows. Between times I peel potatoes, set tables and wash dishes.

"Are you sure the service intends to make a man out of me?"—Willy

Seriously, though, I think any young man will benefit from service training and discipline.

—Ex-Marine

Dear Ele and Walt: Next time you write about going steady, point out that the worst thing about it is trying to get back into circulation after you've broken up. I went with this girl for two years, and then called it off last month. She didn't want to break up, but I knew if we kept going together we'd go all the way, and I'm not ready to get married yet.

Now I try to go out with other girls, but they all turn me down. I've heard from some of my pals that my "ex" is telling everyone how much she still loves me. This makes the other girls in school feel guilty about accepting dates with me, and so here I am — dateless! Can you suggest something?—Sitting Home

Dear Sitting: If your ex's sob's are blocking dates with classmates, widen your operations to other schools. Here's how. Get your three best buddies together and tell them that although you'll always respect your ex, the romance is definitely over. Ask them to introduce you to some girls from other schools.

Date the new girls and bring them to your school's functions. When the girls at your school see you're definitely fancy free, they'll be more receptive to your invitations.—Ele and Walt.

Dear Ele: One of the girls in our club is blind, but she really is sharp and everyone likes her. Next month we're having a dance with a boys' club. We don't know about our blind member. Would it be proper to let the boys' club adviser know ahead of time that one of our members can't see so he can tell his members how to behave?—The Girls.

Dear Girls: Unless sighted folks have a blind pal, they tend to treat blind people as though they were fragile, holy, other-world type creatures. This is all wrong as you know from associating with your fun-loving friend.

So by all means, call up the boys' club adviser and tell him about your blind member. Emphasize that she doesn't want any special treatment, but does want to be in on everything the other girls do. Let him know what dances she likes to do, etc. This will result in a much more relaxed evening for all concerned.—Ele

President of Upper Volta Arrives in U.S.
WASHINGTON (AP) — Maurice Yameogo, the pro-Western president of the little republic of Upper Volta in the heart of West Africa, arrives today for a state visit with President Johnson.

The red carpet welcome for the African leader will include a state dinner tonight at the White House, with 35 American Indian dancers from 14 tribes providing entertainment. Yameogo has had a strong interest in American Indians.

The 44-year-old Yameogo and his wife were to fly to Washington by helicopter from Williamsburg, Va. They arrived in the restored colonial capital Sunday night following a flight from Africa in a U.S. Air Force jet.

During their two days here, they will stay at Blair House, the President's guest house. They leave Wednesday on a week's tour of the United States.

Yameogo, a Roman Catholic, has a farm and often works in the fields for relaxation. He and his wife have six children.

Yameogo played a key role in forming the African-Malagasy common organization. It consists of 13 former French colonies which are attempting to counterbalance Soviet and Upper Volta has no diplomatic relations with the U.S.

YOU HAVE TO DECIDE Who-Whom

The Colorado Springs Board of Realtors, Inc., recommends that each of you consider the following items in determining your vote.

- REALIZE that real estate property taxes are near a confiscatory level and can impede continued growth and development
- REALIZE that a limited few cannot continue to absorb an even higher tax burden for the many.
- REALIZE that new and equitable ways of financing city government must be found for capital improvements (parks, streets, schools).
- REMEMBER that the philosophies of the candidates for City Council should embrace these ideas and programs to insure city growth.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS BOARD OF REALTORS, INC., found in a study and investigation that the men named below have subscribed by their public utterances and performances to these precepts and philosophies that we deem essential if regional progress is to continue.

Mental Patients to Get More Protection

DENVER (AP) — A bill designed to protect persons involuntarily committed to state mental institutions was given preliminary approval today by the House.

It was the only bill passed on initial consideration during the morning portion of the first Saturday session for either branch of the 45th General Assembly so far this year.

Eighteen other bills were on the calendar for preliminary votes this afternoon.

Rep. Victor Grandy, D-Denver, said the mental health bill would permit a person committed to an institution without his consent to ask a hearing within five days and would require that he be advised of his right to a hearing.

Grandy said the Colorado courts have ruled, in some cases, that mental patients were denied their constitutional rights.

The bill also permits short term, rather than long-term, commitments and authorizes commitments to the Department of Institutions rather than individual hospitals. Grandy said that will give the department leeway to decide how the person can best be treated.

'Bullfighter' Lady Trainer Lands in Jail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charline Abernathy, 43, who says she is a trainer of lady bullfighters, will twirl no capes for a month.

In fact, she won't have room in her jail cell to offer much more than an "Ole!"

Earlier this month Mrs. Abernathy announced, with some fanfare, that she was starting a school for lady matadors. She said she would train them for exhibitions of bloodless fighting after the Portuguese manner, in which the bulls' horns are padded.

But a judge sentenced her to 30 days Friday after she pleaded guilty to shoplifting.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H® Suppositories or Preparation H® Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H® is sold at all drug counters.

about 500,000 tons of coal from North Viet Nam's Hongay mines to Japan.

A powerful Viet Cong unit smashed a government militia outpost 17 miles from the North Vietnamese border today, killing 24 defenders.

The Communist attack began with 15 mortar shells poured into the post at 2 a.m.

The Communists also wounded five of the defenders and captured one. Twenty-five weapons and a stock of ammunition were taken from the post.

A U.S. Air Force pilot escaped injury today when his propeller-driven Skyraider fighter-bomber lost power on takeoff and crashed four miles from Bien Hoa base. The pilot reportedly ejected his bombs in an uninhabited area.

A U.S. Army helicopter crewman was reported wounded by Communist fire in central Viet Nam Sunday, and a U.S. Marine helicopter pilot, Capt. William D. Reynolds of Santa Ana, Calif., was killed during an operation 11 miles southwest of Da Nang, site of the U.S.-South Vietnamese air base for attacks on North Viet Nam.

The Marine's craft was shot down by Communist ground fire. As the pilot and his four passengers ran from the wreckage, a rotor blade flew off the helicopter and struck Reynolds.

About 1,000 Vietnamese army troops participated in the action, during which they took 30 prisoners. Vietnamese officers claimed five Viet Cong were killed.

U.S. and South Vietnamese planes pounded suspected Viet Cong positions in the jungles Sunday. There were no reports on how successful the missions were. They were carried out at various points in the south.

At Da Nang base, a South Vietnamese Skyraider plane hit a parked U.S. Air Force C-123 transport while taking off. Both planes burst into flames, and the Vietnamese pilot was killed.

A bolt of lightning set off a ring of 40 defensive mines around a U.S. Special Forces camp in central Viet Nam Saturday. A U.S. spokesman said 14 Vietnamese were killed and 73 other persons, including an American soldier, were injured.

A bolt of lightning set off a ring of 40 defensive mines around a U.S. Special Forces camp in central Viet Nam Saturday. A U.S. spokesman said 14 Vietnamese were killed and 73 other persons, including an American soldier, were injured.

U.S. and South Vietnamese planes pounded suspected Viet Cong positions in the jungles Sunday. There were no reports on how successful the missions were. They were carried out at various points in the south.

At Da Nang base, a South Vietnamese Skyraider plane hit a parked U.S. Air Force C-123 transport while taking off. Both planes burst into flames, and the Vietnamese pilot was killed.

make two other major Viet Nam decisions this week following Ambassador Maxwell Taylor's "consultations" in Washington.

As reported in this column March 19, the President must decide whether air strikes should be made against the Communists' crucial airfields, rail lines, marshaling yards, industrial plants and other vital installations at Hanoi and the nearby port of Haiphong.

If these devastating air attacks are not ordered this week, the Joint Chiefs contend such blows will become prohibitively costly because of the installing of deadly Soviet ground-to-air missiles.

They warn that intelligence estimates give the Russian SAMs an 85 per cent "kill" ratio against attacking planes once these heat-seeking missiles are fully operational with their precision tracking radar.

Chief purpose of the bombing strikes against North Vietnamese advance radar bases now underway is to wipe out their effectiveness in the SAM missile system.

While these radar stations, strung along the southeastern coast of North Viet Nam, could be useful in alerting Hanoi and Haiphong missile crews, the Joint Chiefs concede their destruction will have little effect on the high "kill" capability of the SAM missiles.

MORE U.S. TROOPS? The other major decision facing the President involves Ambassador Taylor's request for the equivalent of an Army Infantry division to help guard U.S. training installations near Saigon, and for possible combat use should the Communists launch an all-out drive to split South Viet Nam in half.

Taylor raised this dire possibility in dispatches that preceded his visit here. He warned that the increased infiltration of regular North Vietnamese troops into the First and Second Corps areas are armed at achieving this end.

In one report Taylor revealed that 16 government-protected hamlets and villages in these strategic areas were overrun in one week by regular North Vietnamese forces.

Taylor advocates bombing the industrial-military targets near Hanoi and Haiphong on the ground the Ho Chi Minh regime can be "brought to the conference table" only by such drastic action.

Like the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Taylor is convinced the U.S. has the military might in Southeast Asia to force North Viet Nam to quit its aggression, but that this force is not being used as effectively as it should.

These military leaders feel the President's decisions this week could be the most crucial in the protracted Vietnamese struggle.

VIET NAME FLASHES While British Foreign Minister Stewart admitted to Secretary Rusk that he was unable to obtain any cooperation from Foreign Minister Gromyko in their London talks on a peace conference on Viet Nam, he claimed getting the best of the dour Soviet diplomat in one exchange. As related by Stewart, Gromyko kept repeating "The Vietnamese situation is very serious, very serious." After listening to that statement a number of times, Stewart finally interrupted with: "I agree, especially for the North Vietnamese." Gromyko made no reply. . . . According to U.S. naval intelligence reports, at least one shipload of Soviet Mig-21s are on the high seas enroute to North Viet Nam.

Dr. King to Call For Boycott of Alabama

"Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere," he said.

"We must learn to live together as brothers, or perish as fools."

King said the racial crisis touched "every home, every city, every village in the nation." America, he said, is undergoing a social revolution that will change "a jangling discord of the nation into a beautiful symphony of brotherhood."

He said those who had come from other areas of the country for the march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala., participated in "dangerous altruism."

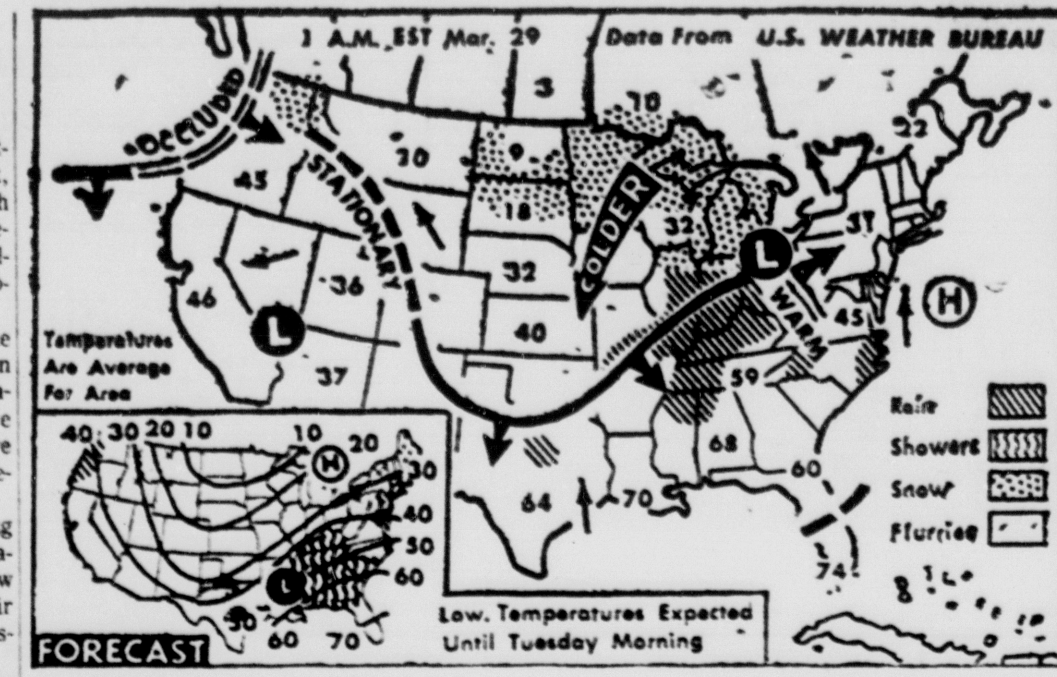

He referred to the death of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, a mother of five from Detroit, Mich., who was shot on the Montgomery-Selma road after the march was over.

"A physical death is a price some must pay to free their brothers from bondage," he said.

He accused churches in the South of being "tail lights instead of head lights." He called them the "last bastions of segregation."

"Sunday School in the South is the most segregated school of the week," he added.

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?
If you take vitamins and still feel tired, your trouble may be due to iron-poor blood. Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! Because just two GERITOL tablets, or two tablespoons of liquid GERITOL, contain 7 vitamins plus twice the iron in 1 lb. of calves' liver.

In only one day GERITOL-iron is in your bloodstream beginning to carry strength and energy to every part of your body. Check with your doctor and if you've been feeling tired because of iron-poor blood, take GERITOL, liquid or tablets, every day. You'll feel stronger fast in just 7 days or money back from GERITOL.

Industry and Agriculture May Be Struck

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A boycott of Alabama products proposed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. would affect both industry and agriculture in the state.

Manufacturing of iron and steel is Alabama's most important industry. Most plants are in Birmingham but others are at Gadsden and Anniston. About half the cast-iron pipe in the United States comes from the Birmingham and Anniston areas.

The state also has textile and clothing manufacturing plants, many meat-packing plants and several chemical plants.

Until about 1900, Alabama was known as the Cotton State, with cotton accounting for most of the state's wealth. Farmers still earn much of their income from cotton, but other crops such as peanuts, corn, hay, small grains, potatoes and pecans now produce a large share of their income. Alabama ranks among the leading producers of peanuts and pecans.

Alabama also is an important livestock and poultry state, ranking high in the production of beef cattle. It also is one of the leading broiler producing states in the nation.

Major League Owners Start Work On Selection of New Commissioner

By JOE REICHLER
BELLELAIRE, Fla. (AP) — Major league club owners were expected to get their first glimpse today of the names of the candidates in the early running to succeed Ford Frick as commissioner of baseball next fall.

The 20 owners, who had submitted their nominations in sealed envelopes, were due to meet in a joint session at 10:30 a.m. EST.

First, they were to elect a new chairman of the three-man committee for selection of a new commissioner. Phil Wrigley Jr. of the Chicago Cubs announced his resignation as committee chairman two weeks ago.

The next order of business will be to turn over the envelopes containing the nominations to the new chairman who may or may not decide to have them opened. The nominations are secret, of course.

As late as Sunday night, no one, not even Frick, could say for sure whether the envelopes would be opened at this meeting.

"The envelopes will be handed over to the new committee chairman, and he will make the decision whether to open them or not," Frick said.

It was the opinion of Dan Topping, president of the New York Yankees, that the envelopes would be opened for inspection. Even if they are, it is a virtual certainty that no agreement on the naming of Frick's successor will be reached at this meeting. Frick, who became commissioner in September, 1951, already has announced his retirement to take effect at the conclusion of the 1965 World Series.

INDIAN HAS GUTS — Bob Anderson of Adams State College is a picture of courage as he wrestled in the NCAA Tournament at Laramie, Wyo., Saturday. Anderson suffered a four-stitch cut over his right eye in the bout preceding this match against Gregory Ruth of Oklahoma. Anderson had the cut re-opened in this match. After doctors bandaged him again, he continued, but lost to Ruth in the semifinals of the 167-pound class. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

Springs Pair Holds Lead in Women's Bowl

STERLING, Colo. (AP) — Denver bowlers predominated as the Colorado Women Bowlers Association tourney wound up its third weekend at Sterling Sunday. Two more weekend sessions are scheduled.

Denver Security Mutual topped all team entrants, moving into first place in division A with a 2,868 score.

Doubles competition was marked, however, by a Colorado Springs pair, Jerry Mann and Catherine McBride, who continued to stay on top by rolling 1,147. Susan Tawara of Denver topped singles entrants with a score of 643.

Iowa State No Longer 'Bridesmaid'

By WARD MARCHANT

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Iowa State, for many years the bridesmaid of NCAA wrestling, cast aside the runner-up role and ousted defending champion Oklahoma State 87-86 to win the 1965 national collegiate wrestling title Saturday night.

To do it, the Cyclones had to overcome a heavily favored Oklahoma State team which led by 22 points after the semifinal round.

But Iowa State piled up 37 points while losing only two bouts in the consolation round to take a five-point lead entering Saturday night's finals.

Both of the Cyclones' finalists — 147-pound Veryl Long and 177-pound Tom Peckham — took decisions, while two of Oklahoma State's five finalists were beaten.

The six points were enough to give the Cyclones their first victory in the 35-year-old national tourney, despite early victories by Oklahoma State's Tadaaka Haata at 115 and Yojiro Uetake at 130.

Peckham's victory over the Cowboys' Bill Harlow was the crucial match, giving Iowa State an 87-82 margin with two events left.

OSU's Jack Brisco scored a pin in the 191-pound event, pulling the Cowboys within one point, but Jim Nance of Syracuse snuffed out the losers' last chance with a 5-3 heavyweight victory over Russ Weiner.

Lehigh, which led a strong Eastern bid at the tourney, came up with two champions — 123-pound Mike Caruso and 137-pound Bill Stuart — to finish third with 54 points, one ahead of Oklahoma.

Greg Ruth won the 167-pound title for the Sooners, who watched their defending 157-pound champion, Mike Sager, drop a quarter-final match and finally settle for fifth place in the division.

Maryland's Bob Kopnisky took the 157-pound title.

Big Ten champion Michigan, accorded an outside chance to win the tourney, failed to gain a first-place and finished behind Oklahoma with 39 points.

ready has announced his retirement to take effect at the conclusion of the 1965 World Series. "It is my guess that the original list probably will contain between 40 and 60 names," Topping said. "I believe a good number of these nominations will be eliminated on the first count; nominees, for example, who receive only one or two votes."

It will take 14 votes to elect a commissioner. Complicating the election even more is the requirement there be a minimum of seven votes from each league.

A majority of the club owners feel that the next commissioner should come from the ranks of business or industry. They are opposed to a politician or a baseball man.

Those who favor a man outside the baseball realm are of the opinion that the new commissioner should have an executive assistant, a man thoroughly versed in baseball rules and law.

Among the baseball men most prominently mentioned as possible candidates are American League President Joe Cronin, Buzzy Bavasi of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Lee McPhail of Baltimore, Gabe Paul of Cleveland, Joe Brown of Pittsburgh, Fred Haney of the Los Angeles Angels, Judge Robert Cannon, counsel for the Baseball Players' Association, Charles Segar, secretary-treasurer of baseball, and Hank Greenberg.

The list of outside candidates includes New York attorney Bill Shea, Senators Robert Kennedy of New York, Philip Hart of Michigan and Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, Supreme Court Justice Byron White, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Richard Nixon and Milton Eisenhower.

Automatic Transmission May Take Over Racing

By DUKE FERGUSON

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — The old adage, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," probably applies to automobile racing more than any other field.

Jim Hall's spectacular victory here Saturday in the 12-hour endurance race, using a Chevrolet-powered car with an automatic transmission, probably will set the pace for the sport.

"You can't knock success," said a spokesman for Carroll Shelby, builders of the Ford-Cobra and now in charge of the Ford GT racing program.

"We've been working on an automatic transmission principal as well as other things," said a representative for Shelby-American of Venice, Calif.

Chamberlain, the NBA's top scorer, took only 15 shots. But he was a tower of strength, feeding his teammates and battling down Royals' shots.

Three 76ers outscored Chamberlain. Hal Greer was tops with 30. Al Bianchi dropped in 21 and Chet Walker made 18.

Shayes called the Royals "the most fantastic outside shooting team in the league."

But Royals' Coach Jack McMahon said, "We went completely flat on offense in the second half. Our fast break was nonexistent throughout the game. We didn't drive and make them foul like we should."

Both coaches reported their ailing stars — Chamberlain and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, who wound up with 27 points — still are under par. Chamberlain has a stomach disorder and Robertson an injured foot.

A Royals' rally tied the score at 41-41 and 45-45 in the second quarter before the 76ers went out in front to stay.

They led 57-53 at the half, 79-74 at the end of three quarters and then pulled away as the Royals got only two field goals in the first six minutes of the final period.

Philadelphia's 76ers picked up loose balls, stealing the ball from normally sure-fingered Royals making key foul shots and blocking shots.

Shayes could care less if Chamberlain doesn't score — as long as he keeps the other team from hitting the basket.

"Will not only blocked 10 shots but forced them to take many other bad shots," Shayes said. "If he plays the rest of the way like he did today, we'll win the championship."

term for the road runner bird in Texas. Hall's home state — finished the 12-hour grind over the 5.2 mile twisting course with 197 laps, five laps ahead of the rest of the field. His average speed for the 12 hours was 84.723 miles per hour.

Rain which started falling in a torrential downpour around 5:30 p.m. EST, slowed his earlier pace of just under 100 miles per hour, eight m.p.h. more than the record set last year by a Ferrari.

Hall said after the race he would like to start producing his cars for general sale. However, his plans were vague.

"We're oil men, not manufacturers," said Hall and his co-driver in the winning car, Hap Sharp. "But we'd still like to manufacture them if we can get the price down."

Hall raced in the sports car category.

The second place car, a Ford prototype, driven by Ken Miles of Hollywood, Calif., and Bruce McLaren of New Zealand finished second at 192 laps and won the points toward the world's manufacturers title.

A Ford-Cobra, produced by Shelby, won the grand touring division title with a fourth-place finish at 187 laps. The third place car was a Ferrari driven by David Piper of England and Anthony Maggs of Pretoria, South Africa.

The American built cars completely shut out European entries — for the first time in four years.

This was the second time in less than a month that the Ford prototypes beat Ferrari in the race for the manufacturers championship. The first victory this year came at the Daytona Continental.

Shelby said he plans to run at least two and possibly three prototype Ford GTs in the 24-hour endurance race at Le Mans later this spring.

Saari Plans to Dominate Swimming for Years

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Teen-age domination of swimming in recent years has made him seem out of a lot of young champions.

But Southern California's Roy Saari is determined not to be shunted aside for several years. "I'm still improving," the 20-year-old king of the national collegiate swimming championships said after leading the Trojans to their third straight team title here.

"I don't think I'm near my peak yet," Saari said. "I'm in the best form of my life, and have never been faster." Saari conceded that it is tough to stay on top long "because the young kids are getting better all the time. I'll have to keep working and keep improving or they will overtake me."

The Olympic veteran wasn't overtaken by anyone at the collegiate championships which wound up Saturday night. He won three individual titles in record time for the second straight year.

Saari lowered the American and collegiate record in the 1-650 yard freestyle to 16:39.9, the collegiate mark in the 200-yard freestyle to 1:42.9, and the American and college standards 4:43.6.

The Southern California ace was the only triple winner, but Steve Clark of Yale, Ken Siltzberger of Indiana, Gary Dilley of Michigan State and Fred Schmidt of Indiana each won twice as eight American and nine collegiate records were bettered.

Clark took the 100 and 200-

Clemente Returns To Bucs

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Florida seemed a little more like the Sunshine State to the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday, Roberto Clemente was back in a Pittsburgh Pirates' baseball uniform.

Clemente, in bed for more than a month in Puerto Rico with what was believed to be malaria, worked out Sunday before the exhibition game with Baltimore and there is a good chance he'll be ready for opening day.

The 1964 National League batting champion said he has regained 10 pounds but still is 10 pounds underweight. He had nothing to say about whether he will be ready opening day.

But Manager Harry Walker was optimistic.

After watching his star outfielder work out, Walker said: "I'm sure Clemente will be ready to start for us when the season opens in Pittsburgh. He sure looks good."

"Of course, Dr. (Joseph) Finegold (the team physician) will have to check him all over," Walker said. "But the way he looked out there, to me I'd say he could get ready in a hurry."

Clemente, a .339 hitter last season, was sure he had malaria. "They don't find the germ," he said of the San Juan hospital report.

"Do not touch me. You might get malaria," he kidded his teammates.

Clemente played some winter ball before being sidelined by an ankle injury. He also managed for awhile. He became ill while preparing to go to spring training.

He arrived in Miami Saturday and accompanied the team here Monday. Dr. Finegold probably will examine him on Tuesday at the Pirates' Fort Myers base. Clemente's presence in the opening day line-up would do much to bolster the Pirates' chances for a quick getaway.

They definitely will not have second baseman Bill Mazeroski at the start. He has been sidelined for five to six weeks by a broken bone in his right foot.

Two Three-Run Homers Score Only One, Two Runs in Mixups

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

When does a batter hit a home run with two men on base, and only one runs score?

In the first instance, when Kansas City's Tom Reynolds slammed an apparent homer in the 10th inning with the game tied 8-8 Sunday. The hit gave the Athletics a 9-8 victory over St. Louis.

In the second instance, when Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs socked an apparent homer in the seventh inning that snapped a 5-5 tie last Wednesday. The Cubs eventually edged the Los Angeles Angels 8-7.

To say the situations are confusing is an understatement. In fact, Sunday's incident was so confusing that the final score at first was determined to be 10-8.

It was only after a long discussion that the score was changed to 9-8.

In each case, the batter hitting the homer passed a runner between first and second bases, was called out immediately and was credited only with a single. The instances, however, differed so a different number of runners scored.

The Sunday situation was this:

With one out and the score 8-8 in the 10th inning, Ed Charles was at second and Ken Suarez was at first. Reynolds rapped the ball toward the right field fence and started running.

Charles and Suarez started running, too, but then held up when it appeared that the Cardinals' Tito Francona might catch the ball. Reynolds didn't slow up, though, and was 30 feet past Suarez by the time the ball skimmed over the fence.

After Charles and Suarez both crossed the plate, plate umpire Nestor Chylak signaled two runs. That's when the final score was given as 10-8. It later was changed under a provision of rule 4.11c:

"The batter hits a home run out of the playing field to win the game in the last half of the ninth or an extra inning, but is called out for passing a preceding runner. The game ends immediately when the winning run is scored."

In the Wednesday instance, the Cubs and Angels were tied 5-5 with none out in the fifth. With Glenn Beckert at third and Doug Clemens at first, Williams hit his second homer of the game over the right field screen.

Here, too, Clemens held up and was passed by Williams, who was called out and credited with a single. Beckert trotted home from third, and first base umpire Ed Runge waved Clemens around the bases for a second run.

In less confusing exhibition baseball games Sunday, Fred Newman pitched the Angels to a 5-3 victory over one Cleveland squad while another Cleveland team beat Boston 5-3 behind Leon Wagner's two-run homer.

The Chicago White Sox defeated Detroit 5-3 with Danny Cater belting three hits, and Frank Robinson's three-run homer powered Cincinnati to a 4-2 triumph over the New York Yankees, who absorbed their 10th defeat in the last 12 games.

Minnesota topped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-6 on Jim Jenkins' run-scoring single in the 14th inning, and Baltimore edged Pittsburgh 4-3 behind homers by Jack Brandt and Jerry Adair.

Gary Kroll and Dennis Ribant hurled the New York Mets to a 6-2 victory over Milwaukee while the Cubs trounced San Francisco 11-3 with Don Lardrum clouting a three-run homer.

Big Eight Teams Break Even; Mizzou Wins Two

By JIM VAN Valkenburg

Associated Press Sports Writer

This is supposed to be a rebuilding year for Missouri's defending Big Eight baseball champions. So what happens? The Tigers opened the season by whipping Texas Tech 6-3 and 26-3 at Lubbock.

Oklahoma State, under its new coach, Chet Bryan, gained an even break in a four-game series at Houston with a 10-6 victory Saturday. Colorado opened by splitting a doubleheader with Grand Canyon College at Phoenix, Ariz., Saturday, 3-12 and 3-2.

This pulled the Big Eight up to break-even status, 5-5, against non-conferences foes, heading into this week's 30-game schedule. League play starts April 9. Four teams open play this week.

Here is the team-by-team rundown: Missouri coach Hi Simmons, winner of 10 Big Eight pennants in his 25 years at the Columbia school, has only four lettermen back from a team which won the league at 19-0, first perfect record in 23 years in the Big Eight, and finished as NCA runner-up to cap a 27-5 season. The Tigers headed south with just one hour of outdoor work, but struck 21 hits Saturday with Ken Sigman getting two homers and driving in five runs, Bob Robben 5-for-5 including two triples and Ray Thorpe hitting a single, double, triple and homer. Missouri faces Baylor today and Tuesday in Waco.

Oklahoma, 13-8 and 17-10, lost its entire infield, two starting outfielders and the entire pitching staff except Joe Cox. Jack Baer's team opened with two defeats at Texas U. about two weeks ago, will start a two-game series at Arizona U. today.

Iowa State, 10-7 and 12-7, opens the season Friday and Saturday against Minnesota's NCAA champions, playing a doubleheader each day.

Kansas, 11-10 and 16-11, opens a seven-game Texas tour at Randolph Air Force Base Wednesday. Floyd Temple has eight lettersmen, headed by pitcher Steve Renko and Steve McGreevy. Big Eight batting champ last year at .421. Professional signings have hit the Big Eight so hard that McGreevy is the only returnee from the coaches' all-league team of 1964.

Colorado, 10-11 and 11-16, opens a two-game series at Arizona State today. Jim Orr was the second game winner against Grand Canyon. He came in for starter Jim LaFoe in the sixth. George Lewark had a solo homer to tie the game in the eighth, then the Buffs won it on an error.

Nebraska, 7-14 and 9-18, had its entire three-game series at Tulsa cancelled by cold weather last week. The Huskers open a three-game series with South Dakota State Thursday in Lincoln. Coach Tony Sharpe is happy about his team's potential.

Oklahoma State, 4-12 and 6-14, looked good at Houston considering that Bryan inherited only three lettersmen. Don Bumpas pitched the route Saturday, permitting four earned runs. Freddie Moulder and Tony Sellari had three hits each, leading OSCU's 13-hit attack.

Kansas State, 3-15 and 5-18, opens a six-game southern trip today at Memphis State. The Wildcats have a new coach, Bob Brasher, new uniforms and almost completely new personnel. Ernie Recob, a .340 hitter two years ago as an all-league choice, is back. He was ineligible last year.

Reiman Wins Motorcycle Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.

(AP) — Roger Reiman of Kewanee, Ill., rode his Harley Davidson to a second straight victory in the American Motorcycle Association Daytona 200 Sunday.

Reiman roared around the Daytona International Speedway at an average speed of 90.041 miles an hour in a steady rain, completing 53 laps over the 3.81-mile course.

Over a dry course last year, Reiman set a record of 94.833 m.p.h.

Finishing second, only 40 seconds behind Reiman, was Mert Lawwill of San Francisco, also driving a Harley. Reiman and Lawwill were the only two riders in the starting field of 94 to complete all 53 laps.

Reiman collected the winner's purse of $3,250. Buddy Stubbs of Bellflower, Calif., Bill Jasper of Centralia, Ill., and Cal Rayburn of Spring Valley, Calif., received minor injuries in spills.

The start was delayed 35 minutes because of rain. Reiman took the lead on lap 14 and stayed out front.

Winner Says AAU Championship Fight Was His Toughest Bout of Tournament

TOLEDO, Ohio, (AP) — "This was the toughest fight of the tournament for me."

That comment by Lawrence Hines of Philadelphia after he won the 125-pound crown at the National AAU boxing championships summed up the feelings of seven new champions.

Three other new titleholders, however, found their final matches easier than some preliminary bouts they won to gain a spot in last Saturday night's finals.

New 112-pound champion Sam Goss of Trenton, N.J., 139-pound winner Ray Garay of Houston and 165-lb. titlist George Cooper pointed to earlier round battles as their roughest of the three-day meet.

"My first two fights were two of the roughest I've had in a long time," said Garay.

All but two of the 10 final matches went the full three rounds.

Boone Kirkman 20-year-old slugger from Seattle, Wash., won the heavyweight crown by dropping 27-year-old Fleming Mosley, the tourney's oldest fighter, so decisively officials didn't even bother with a knock-out count.

Herb Dolloson of Washington, D.C., took the 132-pound title over Ulysses Mercer of Brooklyn, N.Y. with a second round technical knockout.

Goss, 147-pound Hedgeman Lewis of Detroit, 156-pound Conrad Williams of Homestead.

Pa., and 178-pound Roger Russell of Philadelphia won their crowns on unanimous decisions.

Russell, a knockout winner in the semifinals, was voted the meet's outstanding boxer.

Split decisions of the three ringside judges gave titles to Garay, Cooper, 119-pound George Colon of New York, and 125-pound Lawrence Hines of Philadelphia.

Colon, 20, loser in only one of his 107 fights, had a rugged slugging battle with 16-year-old Johnny Nard of Cincinnati, the youngest fighter in the finals. The championship match was North's seventh bout — and first loss.

Philadelphia and New York City tied for the team title.

Liston Spurns To Stand Trial For Forgery

DENVER (UPI) — Fonedex Cox, one of Sonny Liston's sparring partners, will stand trial today on charges of forgery.

The 33-year-old fighter will appear before Denver Dist. Judge Edward J. Keating.

Last week, Cox failed to get his trial postponed. His attorneys argued that a delay would be necessary so Cox could accompany Liston to Plymouth, Mass., to prepare for the upcoming championship bout.

Sure beats smoking!

Here's how to enjoy it most:

1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.
2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.
3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness.

How can you know till you try it?

Willis Smith in 1950 was running in the first Democratic Primary for U. S. Senate in North Carolina against incumbent - by - appoint Dr. Frank Graham. Former U. S. Senator Robert R. Reynolds and a little-known pig raiser also ran. Senator Graham failed a clear majority by only a few thousand votes.

Different from my present practice, I donated to the campaign of candidates opposing federal office - holders of either party whose records I deplored.

I called Smith's headquarters to offer a campaign contribution for the second primary. His manager said Senator Reynolds, who received about 10,000 votes, had endorsed Graham and the Smith forces did not think they could win. Answering my inquiry he gave me the name of a Raleigh banker who had handled the finances. Deciding to contribute, I asked the great constructive congressman, Ed Gossett from Wichita Falls, Tex., if he would assist Smith in organizing a campaign.

Election eve the Raleigh banker said, "We have no chance... the Negro vote is heavy; labor is supporting Graham solidly and the good people who supported Reynolds will vote for Graham."

Election night radio reports disclosed Smith was, unexpectedly, the winner. Raleigh, N. C., was frantically calling me. For a joke I did not answer until Raleigh was nearly tearing down the long - distance lines.

The wonderful victory turned out badly as they sometimes do. The fine Senator Willis Smith died in a few years. Dr. Graham was soon made U. S. representative to the U. S., doing 100 times more harm than one bad Senator could do. He established the pro-Communist Sukarno government with equal U. S. and Soviet support.

Graham briefly acted as arbitrator between India and Pakistan and the pro-Freedom Pakistan government promptly fell. H.L.H.

France, Soviets Sign New Industrial Pact

PARIS (AP) — France and the Soviet Union today signed an agreement implementing in an industrial sense a previous accord to cooperate in developing color television on the basis of a French system.

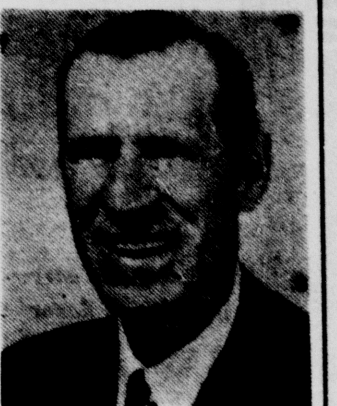

The agreement provides that a newly developed French tube will be used by the Russians in constructing color television sets.

The French and Russians hope their joint effort will spread to other nations of Western Europe. A meeting to decide on what color television system will be used by these nations is in progress in Vienna. American and West German systems also are in the competition.

Adams State Choir Shows High Quality

By JOHN FETLE R
ARTS CRITIC

If anyone would wish to study choral music and techniques, I would definitely recommend Adams State College in Alamosa. Which shows the development of professionalism in the choral field in Colorado.

The proof of it came Sunday night in a concert by the Adams State Choir, conducted by Randolph Jones, at the Trinity Methodist Church here.

The choir is one of the finest choral organizations we have heard in quite a spell. And what is more important, the individual imprint of Jones, the conductor, was in evidence in every musical effect, in every nuance, and in the dynamics of the choir.

The dynamics ranged from a whisper to the full stentorian choral fortissimo, yet preserving, even in the loudest passages, an excellent balance.

The over-all effect was that of a "choral organ," or "choral instrument." In the background there was a reminiscence of the old Christiansen technique, but considerably amplified in the direction which Paul Christiansen has taken. In fact, the elder and younger Christiansens were represented with numbers on the program.

It was evident that the choir knew its musical material exceedingly well. But Jones goes a step beyond it, for it was evident that he conducted not only what the choir knew by heart, but gave it an excellently controlled interpretation at the moment of performance. This is a great cry from a choir performing by heart simply what it already knows.

The program, also, was more interesting than the usual school choir concert even though some traditional college choir numbers were included. There was a work by Johann Michael Bach, then Morley, a Plainsong, Johann Sebastian Bach, Bachmannoff, Paladilhe, Schumann, F. Melu Christiansen, Pepping, Baristow, Ralph Vaughn Williams, Russian Folk Song, Luvas, Spiritual Norse Folklore, and Knut Nysted.

Selection of singers for a college choir varies from year to year. It was most fortunate that Jones has in his choir a fine selection of bass voices, which makes it possible for him to obtain deep "organ" effects in fortissimo as well as pianissimo passages. He excels, moreover, in the skillful use of quite a number of technical devices, apart from the standard effective fortissimo cut ending. He blends the choir voices not only with good balance, but he goes a step beyond that, and uses this year's particular selection of choir voices, with their characteristics, not to cover them up, but uses them to reinforce special effects in the choral balance. This can be only done by a conductor of considerable skill, and Jones certainly accomplishes it.

It is clear that Jones, the choral conductor of Adams State is a choral man of considerable maturity, and his choral presentation has been unusually well thought-out. The singing of the Adams State Choir was a stirring event, in the beautiful, modern sanctuary of Trinity Methodist.

Two Injured In Single Car Accident

A single-car accident early Sunday morning four miles west of Manitou Springs in Cascade resulted in injuries to two persons, the State Patrol reported. Donald C. Steele, 24, Ft. Carson, suffered a fractured skull and jaw, and multiple lacerations on his face and head.

Ernest J. Bergeron, 28, Ft. Carson, suffered multiple lacerations on his face.

Both soldiers were taken to Ft. Carson Hospital by E & E Ambulance, according to the patrol.

The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m. Sunday. Steele was eastbound at a high rate of speed, when his vehicle left the road while going around a curve. The car skidded for 288 feet down the right side of the road, then hit a pile of loose dirt and rock and came to a stop.

Steele was found lying by the right front door of the car on the ground, the patrol reported. The car, a 1953 model, had an estimated $150 damage.

Police Halt Assault in Process Today

An assault and robbery was apparently narrowly averted early this morning when three men in the process of beating up a Ft. Carson soldier were driven off by the approach of a car, police reported.

Huey P. Jeffers, 23, Ft. Carson, told police he was taking a shortcut at 3 a.m. Sunday through an alley running from the 400 block of E. Pike's Peak Avenue to go to the bus depot, and was crossing the north parking lot of the Embers Steak House when three men jumped him.

Jeffers said at that time the headlights from a car coming up the alley frightened the men off. He said nothing was taken from him, since the car approached too quickly after the men attacked him.

Jeffers added that he didn't get a description of the men except that they were all white, and were wearing levis and no coats.

Jeffers had two small knots on his forehead where he had been struck, and was taken back to Ft. Carson, according to the report.

Academy Grading Bids Will Be Issued

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will issue an invitation for bids about April 5 for site grading for cadet quarters at the Air Force Academy, reports Rep. Frank Evans.

The approximate value of the contract is $100,000. Evans said he was especially pleased that bids would be restricted to small businesses because of the frequency which contracts are for such large amounts that small businesses in the area cannot compete for them.

He said he would continue to urge the government to fairly consider the capabilities of small business in government contracting.

AFA Seminar Set to Probe Math Problems

Recent developments in problems intriguing to mathematicians since the 18th century will be topic of the fifth in the spring series of technical seminars sponsored by the Air Force Academy Department of Electrical Engineering.

The seminar, scheduled for 3:30 p.m. April 6 in the Electrical Engineering conference room, 6H26, Fairchild Hall, is open to the public and a special invitation to attend is extended Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo area engineers, educators, and technical personnel.

Capt. J. L. N. Violette will discuss recent approaches to the problem of analyzing the fields of waveguides when discontinuities are present.

The problem of solving Maxwell's equations to satisfy given boundary conditions in a region is quite well known. Exhaustive works in the area of mathematical boundary value problems date well into the 18th century.

Capt. Violette's topic will cover the more recent approach dealing with obstacles on the center conductor in coaxial waveguides whereby the obstacles are axially symmetric but otherwise of arbitrary shape. A research associate, Capt. Violette was a member of the Electrical Engineering faculty for two years prior to assuming his present position.

He received his B.E.E. degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and is presently a Ph. D. candidate in absentia at North Carolina State.

The next seminar is scheduled for April 27. Maj. F. J. Knauss will discuss "Dynamic Analysis of Two-Phase Servo Motors."

Gen. Marshall to Address Academy Cadets Saturday

Author, reporter, foreign correspondent, city editor, military historian, combat officer — excitement enough for a dozen men — but they're all part of the incredible career of Brig. Gen. S. L. A. Marshall (USA Ret.).

Gen. Marshall will address Third Class cadets at the Air Force Academy Saturday.

His appearance is under the auspices of Department of History, military history division.

The public is invited to attend the discussion of "Mythology and Military History" at 8:45 a.m. in lecture hall F-1 Fairchild Hall.

In addition to his presentation to cadets, Gen. Marshall will visit the Department of History and lead a discussion for cadets and instructors in the advanced military history courses on aspects of military history.

Gen. Marshall, in the words of Carl Sandburg "rates among many of us as the greatest writer on modern war."

Through his personal activities, his lectures, his newspaper writing, and his many books, the general has become recognized as one of the most eminent of military historians.

His record in the armed forces is equally as distinguished. Gen. Marshall enlisted in the Army June 11, 1917, a month before his 17th birthday and began his "education" in warfare on the bloody battlefields of Soissons, St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne, and Ypres-Lys.

By the war's end he was a lieutenant and rifle company commander.

Between World War One and Two, the general was a newspaperman — working as a reporter, sports writer, city editor, and correspondent.

He again entered the service after Pearl Harbor as consultant to the Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and in September 1942 was assigned as chief of orientation, Army of the United States.

The general helped form the Historical Division of the War Department General Staff and developed the system for historical coverage of combat operations that later became standing procedure in all theaters.

He served with the 27th Division during the invasion of the Gilberts and the 7th Division during the Marshall Islands campaign.

Transferred to Europe at the time of the Normandy invasion he covered airborne operations. Gen. Marshall was later named chief historian in the European Theater.

During the Korean War he was operations analyst of the Eighth Army.

The general retired in 1950. A prolific writer Gen. Marshall has contributed articles to many leading American magazines and worked as editorial writer and military critic for the Detroit News.

He is presently writing a column on military affairs which is syndicated by the Los Angeles Times - Washington Post News Service.

Gen. Marshall's books include "Blitzkrieg: Armies on Wheels," "The River and the Gauntlet," "Bastogne: Island Victory," "Pork Chop Hill," "Sinai Victory," "Night Drop: Battle at Bastogne," and "The American Heritage History of World War One."

Realtors Endorse Candidates

Four City Council candidates have been endorsed by the Colorado Springs Board of Realtors.

They are Harry Hoth, James Johnson, Andrew Marshall and T. Eugene McCleary.

"These men are well qualified to serve as councilmen," Toole added.

Toole said that real estate property taxes "are at a confiscatory level. Further tax burdens cannot be placed upon the shoulders of real property owners."

"New and equitable ways of financing capital improvements within the city must be found. A candidate for City Council would embrace the ideas and programs to insure our city's continued growth and progress."

Realtors said this was the first time the organization had shown a preference for council candidates.

Toole said that the Realtors realized that voters must decide the final outcome of the election.

A Nation of Curly-Haired Citizens?

There is a certain female writer on "finances" loose in the land who is syndicated, printed in many newspapers, and who puts out a strange brand of hokum about money and related subjects on which she is supposed to be an expert.

In a recent column, published in the Times Herald Record of New York, she bemoans the fact that our gold is still leaving our vaults at an ever accelerating pace. Our gold reserve has been reduced to $14.8 billion, she points out. That represents a 10 billion loss in 10 years. But, she says, that is still a big hunk of gold. And then she makes a surprising and very misleading statement. She says the $14.8 billion we still hold represents a 42 per cent gold backing for the paper dollars we pack around in our pockets today. This statement is pure malarkey. Since $14.8 billion is merely a little less than half of the gold already earmarked for our friends, it is not surprising that they have $29 billion of our dollars which we are pledged to trade for their gold at the time of their choice.

If they should all choose at once to trade their bucks for the yellow metal, we would be immediately bankrupt, they point out. But she is not alone in trying to build confidence in the government's printing press money. Many other writers are helping the "great society's" cause by putting out the same line of baloney about the "soundness" of our weakened currency.

M. J. Rossant wrote an article for the New York Times, the voice of Liberalism, recently entitled the "Holy War Over Money" in which he said, "The administration will finally eliminate the 'useless gold cover' requirement on the money supply regulated by the Federal Reserve." This should have been done long ago, according to Rossant.

"Once this (sticky gold problem) is out of the way," he states, "the Administration will not have to worry so much about the factor of confidence." There will be no confidence left here at home to worry over. It seems that it is only the confidence of foreigners that has been claimed all our gold, including our jewelry and our teeth filled with gold at the time of their choice. They had better start working on their own gold, including their teeth filled with gold at the time of their choice. They had better start working on their own gold, including their teeth filled with gold at the time of their choice.

Gold that isn't ours is certainly poor "backing" for the counterfeit money the government changed our course since his ment is issuing today. And this time and we are getting clame is doing a lot of harm in circulating such misleading and that will certainly put a lot of beauty operators into the unemployment class.

The Lady Knows Best

A professor at Rutgers University has carefully studied the ability of human beings to accurately size up other human beings.

And he has concluded that women are better at it than men.

A man, he believes, is inclined to take people at face value. But a woman is able to know what she is doing, get "underneath the superficialities" and form true personality impressions.

Is this professor trying to tell us that what men have always lightly referred to as "feminine intuition" may be, in fact, superior intelligence?

Ridiculous. And yet, almost any man will concede that the gal who picked him out as the object of her affection certainly was. But a woman is able to know what she is doing, get "underneath the superficialities" and form true personality impressions.

Different Foreign Policies

The tides of full-scale war are beginning to ebb and flow in Viet Nam. A review of the respective methods and operation of eastern and western foreign policy is in order.

The oriental procedure, arising in both Russia and China, is far removed from occidental practice, particularly as our own American foreign policy is conducted.

Those nations fully committed to socialism (i.e., Russia and China) have an objective toward which they are proceeding as rapidly as various programs can be implemented. Their objective is essentially intellectual. They are seeking to convert the world to socialist belief and practice. In order to advance their efforts, propaganda and education are their principal tools. What they attempt is a massive conversion. Political and military efforts are the "mopping-up" tools.

Thus, their modus operandi results in the training of intellectuals and the inculcation of a belief in socialism. To do this, natives are always used. At the outset, in Viet Nam, as an example, a few Russian or Chinese intellectuals or agitators are introduced. Their purpose is to convince the natives that under communism their lives will be more affluent, economic problems will be solved, and they will be better off. Once the natives are convinced, and it's relatively easy to convince them since the intellectual advance is accompanied by the bestowal of titles and prestige, as well as certain food supplies and military equipment, the natives tend to make communism their own. This intellectual assault is buttressed by the creation of an arch-demon as the enemy to the progress the Viet Nam now believe they could make. The arch-demon is capitalism in general and the United States in particular.

Thus, the natives are convinced that their own progress is being prevented by profit-seeking capitalism and American capitalists. What is important to keep in mind is that the doctrine of communism is now adopted by native Vietnamese. At this point, the foreign intellectuals take their departure. They will retain contact, offer advice and supplies, but the progression toward communism has become a local, native program.

The occidental approach is void of intellectual overtones. The western tools are politics and the military. American foreign policy is geared to making political friends, not of the natives, but of a particular ruling clique.

We have no intellectual goals to offer. We do not sing the praises of capitalism. We offer only a degree of Yankee ingenuity and political domination.

Clarice Guenther

CLARICE GUENTHER, 1328 Rushmore, "I don't really limit the time, but I do encourage reading. I listen to stereo a lot, and that limits the T.V. time. Of course I make sure of the programs."

Mrs. R. L. ENICH, 116 Bradley St., "Oh, yes, they watch the cartoons from 5 to 5:30 and usually a half hour before bed. I'd rather they play. I blow bubbles or something. They usually don't even ask before cartoon time."

MYRA SMITH, 110 E. Columbia, "I try to. They don't watch it till evening and on Saturday, not after 9 in the evening. Yes I edit the programs a bit."

Mrs. Jesse Alire

QUICK QUIZ

Q—For how long has the United States had a "Conscience Fund"?

A—In 1811, during Madison's administration the "Conscience Fund" was started by an unknown person who sent an anonymous letter containing five dollars, since he had, he claimed, defrauded the government of that sum. The government has received more than $500,000 from citizens in conscience money. This is applied to the general fund in the Treasury.

involved and are essentially blind and deaf to their implications. Their concern, as is the concern of any ruling group, relates to staying in power. America will help them stay in power by military means. That is all they know or care about. So, doctrines of communism are encouraged at the grassroots level and ideas in support of capitalism and private property are not even voiced.

In any military conflict to emerge from these divergent foreign policies, the occidental approach leads to tremendous advantages. The natives don't like us for we are always foreigners, having no business but the oppression of the peoples, through local governments which we support. Russia and China, become their friends, for only contact personnel remain and the entire effort is confined to the local people.

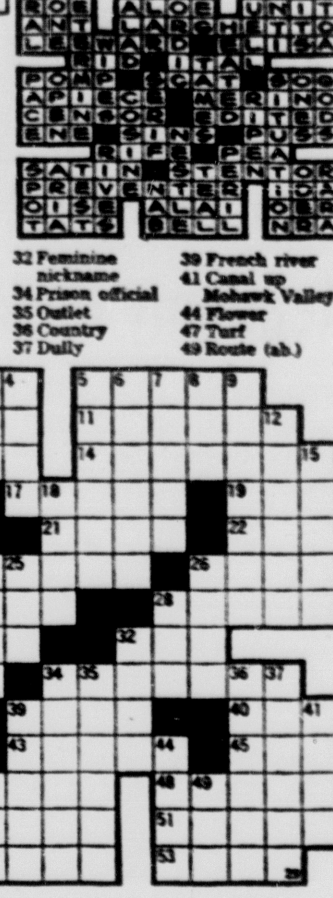

Thus, when the Viet Cong commit an act of aggression against Viet Nam, the affair appears to be the work of natives, struggling to be free from oppression.

When we retaliate, it appears to be the work of foreign Yankee devils who are intent on enslaving the natives to their own aggrandizement and profit.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

The statements and opinions expressed in this column are those of the contributors and do not necessarily express opinions or convictions held by this newspaper.

Letters will not be published without the name and address of the writer. Letters must be received at least two days before publication.

OLD TIMER

Thank you for 3 copies of the paper Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, 3-7-65 which will be read with great interest by me, the son of the late Captain Robert A. Halbert, who vacated every year at Manitou Springs nearby.

My father was also a lawyer and I think an attorney when the Colorado Constitution was adopted which accounts for the similarity of the Constitution of both Colorado and Illinois. I visited Colorado Springs way back in 1884 and the grave of Helen Jackson, when father took the family out there. Am buying at present from Walter Drake and Sons Inc. of your city etc.

ONE MAN RIOT

To the Editor:
Colorado Springs is a town that wants to be a city and don't know how. Now it seems the town is just a police state. Instead of more laws and ordinances we need less.

The Humane Society is just a racket and should never have been given police powers. Is it humane to take a little boy's dog that he loves because he does not have the price of a license?

I have lived over 70 years in Colorado Springs. I have always loved Colorado Springs but I am not sure now that I do. There is always some one looking down your neck. There is no friendship any more. Every one is busy trying to make money.

I long for a town where there are no parking meters. Where dogs have their freedom. Where a man can take a few drinks and not cause a riot. I always thought it took a group of people to make a riot.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL AID

A few days ago I received a letter from one who objects to my letter in the January 27th issue of the Gazette - Telegraph suggesting that some consideration be given to those taxpayers who send their children to some type private school while at the same time paying taxes to support the government schooling system. The letter reads, "Regardless of the fact that certain churches have billions of dollars worth of property on which not one dime of taxes is paid, under the guise of church property, you would still have the U. S. Government provide schools and transportation for any who wish it. Boy, what a time we will have when we provide funds for Presbyterian High, Lutheran Elementary, Methodist Manual High, Baptists schools from primary through college, etc., etc., etc."

Now I'm sorry I did not make my position clear — fairness and HONESTY in the matter of taxes and their use. I don't recall even any HINT that the "government" should "provide schools" for any who wish it. I know that the U. S. Government DOESN'T PROVIDE ANYTHING for it has NOTHING with which to provide. It merely distributes (administers) the taxes extracted from its citizens and charges plenty for doing it. My contention is, in HONESTY and FAIRNESS, a taxpayer should have something to say about how his hard-earned money of which he has been and will continue to be deprived by majority whim should be used.

According to reports I have read it costs two to three times more to school a pupil in the tax-supported system than it does in private schools. What would happen if all the parochial and other private schools decided to fold up and dumped their pupils into the public school system? The fact they are saving taxpayers' money by educating them in their own schools should be appreciated by all taxpayers. Their appreciation should be in concrete form such as I suggested — bus service and/or tax credits.

As for the "Billions of dollars worth of property on which not one dime of taxes is paid" — Again I call for honesty. I do not know the total value of tax-exempt church property, but I feel that only the property actually used for religious worship and educational purposes should be tax-exempt — and that goes for ALL educational institutions as well. It seems schemes have been developed whereby one may transfer his property to some church or educational institution and enjoy part or even all of the income from the tax-free property until his death — and I've heard that such set-ups have been arranged whereby the heirs will have a modest share of the income after the donor's demise.

Nation's Press

Strike Issue

Editor & Publisher Magazine

The major issue in the New York newspaper publishers' printers negotiations now underway, and one which threatens to bring about another disastrous strike on April 1, is the introduction of automated equipment. The publishers have offered to guarantee present jobholders against job loss which means that any reduction would be through normal attrition. The ITU insists this is not enough, that a "birth certificate" must replace a "death certificate," in the words of Elmer Brown. In other words, maintenance of ITU membership regardless of work performed.

It doesn't seem reasonable to us that any union should be able to force its will upon an employer to perpetuate its membership and representation in a plant. A parallel example would be the stereo typers' union forcing continuance of a certain number of union members in other jobs after the employer has shifted his operation to offset. It is comparable to the vaudeville houses being forced to maintain full orchestras after the introduction of moving pictures; or the railroads having to maintain firemen on every train after the development of diesel engines.

The introduction of automated equipment will not mean fewer jobs. It will mean more printing and more jobs, an industry-wide expansion, just as the introduction of the line-casting machine did decades ago.

New York newspapers are not trying to be pioneers in this area of automation. Actually, they are behind the procession and their only desire is to be able to adopt the techniques and equipment that have been in use for some time in newspaper plants around the country.

I am open to correction. However, the figure used serves to illustrate my contention that when parents save money for a school district they are entitled to an appreciative award.

PS — Refusal to "reward" such "money-savers" indicates to me a dictatorial determination on the part of "government" to ride rough-shod over all who do not "conform."

Editor's note: Reader Selden has a "hunch" that there is altogether too much tax exempt property in this country. Our "hunch" is that ALL property should be tax exempt.

He is right about the money the parochial schools are saving the taxpayers, and people who send their children to private or parochial schools pay school taxes themselves. But he is wrong in his belief that they should be "rewarded" by the government for saving us all money.

Who the government awards or assists in any monetary way, the government controls. If the parochial schools want government aid, they should petition it to take their schools into the government school system, for that's what it will amount to in the long run. This would relieve them of the added expense of supporting separate schools. But government school taxes would practically double overnight, so they wouldn't be much ahead. If they accept "rewards" they are going to be government controlled, anyhow.

They are getting their "reward" by giving their kids a better education than the government can provide. If they didn't feel rewarded, they wouldn't be doing it.

TRYING TO PUT UNCLE IN A PICKET LINE

Of Church and State

By RUFUS L. PORTER

It has been 35 years since I first became suspicious of college bred ministers, graduates of famous schools of theology, and their teachings.

There appeared in Cripple Creek one summer a student in Yale's college of theology, or whatever it's named. He came there a couple of summers while still in college to gain practical experience in preaching. They always farm them out to small "backward" places in the beginning to let them rub the green off.

This fellow, whom I won't name since he has since made a name for himself on radio and TV — but not as a minister — and I really liked him, but not as a minister, either.

He used to visit us and I had some pretty hot arguments about religion, a mong other things. Away from religion he was okay and an interesting talker.

But his views on things religious so nearly coincided with mine, I was an agnostic at the time, that I thought he was poor material for the ministry and told him so. On his final visit to our place I pinned him down and forced him to admit he was an agnostic. After the admission, he discussed his ideas freely, and he was way off course for a many studying for the ministry.

He admitted that it was hard for an "educated man" to be a dedicated preacher. This reminded of the educated Roman in Shaw's play "Androcles and the Lion." When someone ask this proud patrician, "But don't you believe in the Gods at all?" He replied, "No more than any other educated Roman." Of course Shaw was a Fabian socialist and he was mixing in a little insidious propaganda into an otherwise pretty good drama. The Roman went on to say that he thought religion was a good thing for the masses. Marx says, "Religion is the opium of the people."

And Shaw's words are precisely the words used by my friend from the University of Yale school of theology, he thought religion a good thing for the masses, "The poor and uneducated need something to tie to," was the way he expressed it. That made me a little doubtful about all preachers and I made a kind of hobby of studying them. And much to my disappointment, for I am at heart more religious than I used to be. I found more here in our home and admit, as my friend from Yale did, that he is an agnostic, "more or less." I suppose he wondered why we never returned to his church.

A good salesman BELIEVES in his product, he has to, to be a good salesman. When a minister doesn't wholly and completely believe in "salvation," in Christ and Him crucified, in the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount, how is he going to sell a good brand of religion to his congregation? He isn't and he doesn't. And therein the church has failed the nation to the degree and in the proportion that it has turned loose these ministers who are non-ministers among the people who still attend the churches.

I asked my friend from Yale how many graduates of theology there were actually, in his opinion, truly dedicated to religion. His answer was, "Probably not more than 15 per cent."

Money for Subversion

By H. E. KERSHNER, L.H.D.

Moscow has established an unlimited global "Solidarity Fund" to finance Communist-led student agitation throughout the world. According to Jules duBois, writing in the Washington Report for the American Security Council, December 21, 1964, $100 million of this fund has been earmarked for use in Latin America in 1965.

The first announced monies from this fund were employed in South Vietnam last fall. It is not hard to induce impetuous students in Vietnam or elsewhere to indulge in rioting in return for cash in hand. This explains library burnings, student demonstrations, and riots in Latin America, Africa, Asia, and elsewhere. Money is liberally poured into capitals throughout the Asian-African bloc, and into the Iron Curtain countries, to promote "Hate America" riots because of the airborne rescue operations in the Congo, American ownership of the Panama Canal or any other subject or incident which gives the Communists an excuse to foment riots. Recent examples are the lawlessness on the campus of the University of California and the earlier rioting in San Francisco at the time of the hearings before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The literal truth is that the people of the U.S.S.R. China and other Communist countries are being robbed to supply funds to hire mercenary rioters in troubled spots throughout the world. In spite of the differences between China and the U.S.S.R., the former is said to have endorsed the unlimited "Solidarity Fund." Panama, Puerto Rico, and Cuba are high on the list as suitable places for the use of large portions of the fund.

Some of this money will be used to step up the training of Communist subversives for work in Latin America. In 1960, Castro established his Modern College of Communist Subversion which now has six branches in Cuba. More than 109,000 revolutionaries have studied Marxism-Leninism in these schools. After their training in Cuba, these subversives fan out through Latin America. Last fall, 250 Spanish-speaking Communist teachers from the U.S.S.R. arrived in Havana to step up the training of Communist subversives in Cuba.

It is good news that Democratic Senator Frank Lausche and Democratic Representative Michael Feighan, both from Ohio, are planning a congressional review of the Lee Harvey Oswald case. They want to know why so many seemingly relevant matters were not considered by the Warren Commission, and why so many witnesses were denied an opportunity to be heard. Particularly, they wish to know why the testimony of some immigration officials, who opposed permitting Oswald to return to the United States, was ignored.

In addition they hope to have more information made available concerning the whereabouts and present activities of all defectors from the United States whether they are still abroad or have returned to this country as is said to be true of some of them.

American patriots will hope that Senator Lausche and Congressman Feighan will be successful in throwing much more light on this vitally important subject.

By HELOISE CRUSE
Dear Folks:

So many of you write that you have a build-up of wax on furniture that I took the problem up with one of the top gals at a leading manufacturer of furniture waxes.

She came down to visit us in our home, and we actually tested these things.

Waxes all have directions on the cans. "Each" has different directions. Most of us don't use these things right! Just because "Joe Blow" makes a wax that you have been using for years doesn't mean that his formula and directions haven't been changed. READ "em" . . . that is what they are printed for.

Lucille Bush and I talked for hours. She's a great lady and has been in the wax business for years. She jotted down the following so that you can clip this column and put it in your books for reference.

The most important thing when using "cleaning" waxes is to do a "very" small portion at a time while the cleaning solvent is still damp.

Here are her notes for you: Build-Up of Waxes on Furniture

"I assume this has to do with the use of waxes made to be used on furniture and not a self-polishing wax for floors (the kind that dries shiny and which is "never recommended for furniture).

"In spite of the fact that there are a number of furniture-type waxes, they should never build-up "if" they are used correctly. They can even be used interchangeably without creating a problem . . . again, "if" used correctly.

"Undoubtedly your readers noticed a smeary, or streaked, or dull or cloudy look, and assumed that was a build-up. The problem could be caused by one or more of the following:

(a) Improper use of a furniture wax
(b) Use of furniture polishes containing oil (which "does" build-up)

(c) Use of waxes and oil products inter-changeably (they don't get along)

(d) Not removing heavy deposits of oil polishes before switching to wax

(e) Accumulation of a greasy film from cooking and heating

The greasy film is one of the most common causes of a smeary look on furniture. People don't realize that the same film that makes windows messy, settles on other exposed smooth surfaces, such as furniture, woodwork, metal articles, etc.

"The solution to the problem is simple. Just use a furniture wax which does a cleaning job, such as spray wax for dusting, no-rubbing wax for furniture, or creamy clean-up wax.

"Cleaning waxes, to do a thorough job, should be applied generously to a small area (one or two square feet) . . . rubbed to loosen the greasy dirt . . . then wipe dry "immediately" with a clean cloth while the wax is still moist and the soil is loosened.

"Repeating waxed woodwork cupboards, etc."

"If creamy clean-up wax has been used on these surfaces, it will be removed by the thorough cleaning (such as washing with one cup sal soda to a pail of hot water) which should be done on any surface (waxed or unwaxed) before repainting.

"Other waxes which might be used on woodwork can be removed by washing the surface with turpentine, naphtha or benzine. "The trick in doing this is to rub a small area briskly, using the cleaner generously—then wipe dry immediately while the wax is loosened." Use plenty of "clean dry" cloths for wiping."

And blessings upon you, Lucille, for showing us the way. And she can come into our home or this column anytime.

Four Persons Drown In Boating Accident

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.

(AP) — A boating accident took the lives of four persons at a 10-acre lake on the George Rowden farm two miles north of Jefferson City Sunday.

The victims were Rowden, 38; a son, Lynn, 11, a daughter, Amanda, 4, and a niece, Kathy Blunt, 8.

Another child, Melvin Blunt, 11, was rescued by Rowden's son, Larry, 16, who had remained on shore.

Witnesses said Rowden and the four children were in a 10-foot boat when Amanda fell out. Kathy tried to grab her but toppled into the water, also. Rowden tried to save them but in doing so capsize the boat.

Letter Of Laughter
Dear Heloise

I am an inveterate "cutt-out" nut! I clip out recipes and I forget where I put them so I won't forget them. —Mrs. W.J. R.

Dear Heloise:

My hint is for people who have "wooden" kitchen cabinets:

I tacked a small frozen juice can lid to my wooden cabinet door (on the inside) near my baking and cooking ingredients. Using a magnet, I place my recipes up at eye level on the can lid.

The magnet holds the recipe. No more smeared recipe cards for me. —Mrs. Janice Jumper

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Honey Touch Shown by Viet Cong

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Pressing a campaign to win the allegiance of the people in the Vietnamese countryside, the Viet Cong are demonstrating a honey touch.

Known for their ability to live, work and fight on a people-to-people level, the Communist guerrillas appear to believe they have found in the family photo album the answer to the West's four-color propaganda brochures.

Recent secret material obtained through Vietnamese intelligence sources included albums containing pictures of family groups, sweethearts, religious meetings, funerals and political and military gatherings.

They were taken from Viet Cong prisoners and bodies and show clearly the degree of organization that has been achieved by the Viet Cong in some areas.

One of the themes played up in the pictures apparently was designed to support the claim that there is religious freedom under Communist regimes.

Many of the pictures in one album were of a religious meeting in "Phuoc Long district." This district is believed to correspond roughly to South Viet Nam's official Phuoc Long Province. About 80 miles north of Saigon, it includes the region known as "D" zone, where the Viet Cong have found a haven for years.

Banners in the pictures proclaimed the gathering was a "religious meeting of the Free Front of National Liberation of Viet Nam." The liberation front is what the Viet Cong calls their movement.

Shown in one picture were two men in the yellow robes of Buddhist monks. They were sitting cross-legged on the floor with cups of tea in front of them.

Another picture showed a man apparently representing the Cao Dai, one of Viet Nam's religious groups, who was addressing the meeting.

Other pictures were of an apparent political meeting in a tent-like structure, where Viet Cong flags and banners were displayed. Speakers were shown addressing the audience over microphones, while members of the crowd raised clenched fists in an expression of voting.

Other pictures were of a more martial nature. One showed a group of well-equipped troops marching with the Viet Cong flag flying.

In many of the pictures, the subjects wore the black, pajama-type blouse and pants long associated with the Communist guerrillas. But the marching soldiers were in trim, khaki uniforms.

One thing they seemed to lack, either by choice or by circumstance, was footwear. All the parading troops were barefoot.

Informants said the photo albums undoubtedly were used by the Viet Cong to show on a personal level what they claim is their way of life. It is believed the albums are passed from hand to hand as guerrilla leaders work among the dwellers of South Viet Nam's hamlets and villages.

Goren on Bridge

By CHARLES H. GOREN

Q. 1—As South you hold:

Spades, K-10-5; Hearts, A-K-J-6; Diamonds, A-Q-3; Clubs, K-8.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 Hrt. Pass 1 Spd. Pass
2 N.T. Pass 3 Hrts. Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This allows for all contingencies. If partner has a five card spade suit he might prefer to play the game in that suit. If his bid was based on a four card suit, he still has the option of returning to four hearts or three no trump.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
Spades, 7-4; Hearts, 8-4; Diamonds, A-10-9-6-5-3; Clubs, A-J-7.

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 Hrt. 1 N.T. Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three no trump. Your hand contains nine points which, with a six card suit, is ample to carry on to game. There is nothing to be gained by jumping in diamonds.

Q. 3 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:
Spades, A-10-5; Hearts, A-J-10-6-3; Diamonds, K-J-7-5; Clubs, 3.

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1 Spd. 2 Dia. ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two hearts. While it is tempting to double and exact from the enemy a suitable toll for what may have been an intemperate act, nevertheless such a step should be taken with caution when support for partner's suit is held. Vulnerability in this case militates against an early double. Chances for game are to be brought to accept what might be an inadequate penalty. Were clubs and spades interchanged, we would favor the double.

Q. 4 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:
Spades, 9-4-3; Hearts, 8-7-5-4; Diamonds, K-J-3; Clubs, K-J.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 Hrt. Dbl. ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two hearts. Your values are mild and should be shown at once. A pass is not recommended, for you may find it inconvenient to enter the auction on a later round.

Q. 5 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:
Spades, A-4; Hearts, K-Q-3; Diamonds, K-3-2; Clubs, Q-J-10-7-5-4.

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 Spd. Pass 2 Spds. Dbl. Ledbl. ?

What do you bid now?

A.—One or both of your opponents appear to be taking liberties with the truth. There is little doubt that your side has a game, inasmuch as your partner was strong enough to make a take-out double at such a high level. Perhaps the atmosphere would best be cleared by passing and permitting partner to rescue himself from the redoubtable. If he bids hearts you will raise and, if not, you may contract for game in clubs.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
Spades, A-6-4; Hearts, 8-7-5-2; Diamonds, 9-6-3; Clubs, 8-6-2.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
2 Dia. Pass 2 N.T. Pass 3 Dia. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Except for the ace your hand is worthless and no inducement should be offered partner to go past the nine trick level.

Q. 7—As South, you have a 60 part score and hold:
Spades, A-K-9-8-6-3; Hearts, A; Diamonds, A-K-J-10; Clubs, 6-3.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2 Spds. Pass 2 N.T. 4 Clubs

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. This strategy is clearly indicated. Partner may be in a position to inflict a severe sting and he should be given the courtesy of the road. If he does not choose to double, he is obliged to proceed with the bidding inasmuch as your original bid was forcing to game.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
Spades, A-10-9-6-3; Hearts, 7-2; Diamonds, J-9-8-3; Clubs, K-5.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 Club. Pass 1 Spd. 2 Hrts. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Opposite a partner who has opened the bidding, you cannot afford to sell out so cheaply and, though this is not strictly speaking a redoubtable suit, there is no other call available.

Negro Boycott Of High School Is Called Off

JONESBORO, La. (AP) —

Gov. John J. McKeithen's extraordinary effort to ease racial tension here ended a Negro high school boycott today.

The pupils voted to return to classes at Jackson High pending the outcome of conferences between a Negro parent-student committee and the Jackson Parish School Board.

McKeithen flew here from Baton Rouge Saturday to hear Negro grievances and talk with leaders on both sides.

Negro leaders had predicted that this little north Louisiana town was potentially "another Selma."

The Ku Klux Klan fired some crosses here and elsewhere in Louisiana Saturday night and Sunday after the governor's visit but no incidents were reported. A Negro march to the city hall shortly after dark Sunday was quiet.

A biracial group of 22 from Syracuse, N.Y., prepared to start reconstruction work on two Negro churches which burned last Jan. 18 after civil rights meetings.

The group includes 14 Syracuse University students and 2 faculty members. They will live with various Negro families in the area during their week's stay.

"Our main purpose is to rebuild the churches in an effort to show the community that there are people outside of Jonesboro who are concerned with their problems," said Catherine Mitchell, 21, a liberal arts major.

Glenn Johnson, 17, president of the Jackson High student body, said the vote Sunday to return to classes does "not necessarily mean that civil rights demonstrations not connected with the school will stop."

A biracial committee was formed at one meeting but Elmo Jacobs said the Parents and Citizens of Jonesboro Committee would handle conferences with the school board.

Jacobs said too many of the seven Negroes named to the 14-member biracial committee were elderly residents with no connection with the civil rights movement.

McKeithen conferred with a Negro delegation at the high school, then toured the building and grounds.

The governor promised some immediate aid—particularly in regard to sending in new textbooks to replace those which are outdated or worn out.

McKeithen urged a spirit of reasonable compromise. He said Negro leaders must help get Louisiana through a period of change "without hurting or hating."

Demonstrations in Jonesboro were triggered by the student boycott of all-Negro Jackson High March 8 after a false rumor that the football coach was to be fired for civil rights activities.

Congress of Racial Equality workers have been active in forming a civil rights drive in this rigidly segregated area.

Repeat Request

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column ever since I can remember, and now I am a freshman at Columbia University. When I was in high school I recall having read something in your column about students who "ratted" on one another, and how you felt about tattletales. It made more sense to me than anything I have ever read on that subject. If you can locate that letter, please print it again. These are times when the question of "informing" on classmates who cheat is timely. Thank you. —DAVID AT COLUMBIA

DEAR DAVID: With the help of an efficient secretary, I located the letter. It was first printed on November 14, 1961, and here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: In our class at school we got into a big discussion about 'tattling' and we would like to know how you feel about this subject. Thank you. —HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

DEAR STUDENTS: For some reason, teachers, and even parents, teach young people that it is "unethical" or downright disgraceful for one child to tell someone in authority that another child has disobeyed, misbehaved or even broken the law. Is it any wonder we have hoodlums and vandals who count it a virtue not to "squeal"?

Congress Slows Deliberation of Johnson Bills

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's chances of getting House action before Easter on three top-priority bills appeared today to be improbable, if not impossible.

The three measures on which the President wanted quick passage are a voting-rights bill, a $1.3-billion aid-to-education measure, and a proposal for comprehensive health care for the elderly.

House leaders who had mapped out a rigid timetable to accommodate the President's wishes have all but tossed it out in the face of legislative realities.

The school measure, first of its kind ever passed by the House, was sent to the Senate in a night session last Friday. It is in the hands of the Senate Education and Labor Committees which has been friendly to school bills in past years.

The health-care bill cleared the House Ways and Means Committee last week but cannot go before the Rules Committee before Tuesday at the earliest.

Indications were it would not receive Rules Committee attention before Wednesday.

The committee is expected to hold a minimum of several days of hearings on the complicated and cumbersome bill before clearing it for House consideration.

Administration leaders, while publicly hoping to get House debate under way late this week, have conceded privately that the outlook is dark. They now plan to vote next week.

The voting-rights measure, now at the top of the priority list, originally was scheduled for several days of hearings before the House Judiciary Committee. The committee already has spent more than a week on hearings and has witnesses scheduled for four days this week.

The bill then will start its tedious journey through a subcommittee, then the full Judiciary group, and finally the Rules Committee. There is little likelihood that it will be in a position for House action until after Easter.

The departure from the original timetable for the trio of bills may cut short the planned 10-day House Easter recess.

To clear the decks for consideration of the big bills, the House scheduled votes this week on a group of relatively noncontroversial measures and the $1-billion Interior Department appropriation bill.

The Senate floor docket also is comparatively light.

Committees in both branches will consider the voting-rights measure, the annual budget for the national space agency, and continuance of the foreign-aid program.

with running to Mama or the teacher with, "Johnny hit me!" If children are to grow up with a sense of civic duty, they can not be taught that it is "no-bie" to remain silent when they know who has destroyed public property or committed other serious anti-social acts. (It is their parents who must pay for such deeds.) Also it is unfair that a guilty child should "get by" unpunished; the next time he will try something a little bolder. I think it is time we adults reviewed our attitude on "tattling."

DEAR ABBY: I understand that you live in California, so maybe you can tell me why they have more psychiatrists than plumbers in Beverly Hills.

DEAR CURIOUS: Their sinks are o.k., but their heads are clogged up.

DEAR ABBY: Is it impolite to ask for a recipe? A friend of mine recently attended a dinner party (all friends) and asked the hostess for her recipe for a dessert which she found delicious. The hostess replied, "I never give out my recipes."

Was the hostess right in refusing? Or was my friend wrong for asking? —JUST CURIOUS

DEAR JUST: It is not "impolite" to ask for a recipe. Most cooks are complimented when their guest inquires. Those who refuse to give out their recipes (professional chefs excepted) are selfish. After all, but for the generosity of others, THEY would not have a collection of recipes themselves.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Harv Morgan's show attracted thousands of phone calls from listeners who wanted information about love and marriage problems. But the Beatle craze among teen-age girls also popped up, so scrapbook this brief analysis. And you can have a lot of fun making the "giggle test" below, which I used to assign to my psychology students at Northwestern University.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE V-443: Harv Morgan invited me back for both his TV and also his 90-minute radio program during the visit of the Beatles.

On both shows, the public was entitled to telephone questions, which we answered immediately over the air.

"Dr. Crane," one such caller began, "how do you explain this mad 'crush' by American girls on the Beatles?"

"Why, the girls lined up all night just waiting for a chance to see the Beatles at their hotel window."

"And many girls even kissed the doorknobs and slobbered over them, hoping that maybe their saliva would be touched by one of those Beatles! How come?"

To explain this form of mob sexual hysteria, let me ask you this simple question:

"If a 16-year-old girl is on the phone talking to a male, will she giggle more often than her 36-year-old mother does in a similar situation?"

In fact, you can also tell whether the high schooler is speaking to a boy or to her own grandmother, just by making the "giggle test."

For a 2-minute interval, count the number of giggles. If she is talking to a boy, she will giggle almost constantly, yet she will seldom giggle while conversing with Grandma! Why?

And when I address high school convocations, the audience will explode in far more excessive laughter to the same joke I tell, than will an older audience. Why?

Well, here is the main reason: the teen-agers have not been accustomed to romantic love during grade school.

Oh, they have felt affection for their parents, as well as for their siblings and playmates.

But that type of love is not the romantic variety which usually develops in the middle teens.

So teen-agers are suddenly overwhelmed with a strange, diffuse form of energy that is generated by their maturing sexual glands.

All of this new energy is largely pent-up until they learn to channel it via romantic daydreams, or dates, etc.

But many of them don't expend all this rapidly zooming sexual energy in such sublimated outlets, of which giggles are a universal example.

As a result, when the movie magazines or TV or even their girl friends focus on the Beatles, then teen-age girls get caught up in a nation-wide erotic form of hysteria.

For romantic hysteria is actually very contagious during the middle teens. Girls then can be stampeded like sheep.

Boys are also in somewhat the same boat, for they also giggle and laugh boisterously and with excessive loudness, but boys usually channel off more of this new sexual energy via athletics.

For example, observe the Beatle fans and you will generally find that well-adjusted girls who have happy romances, are not likely to be gushing fanatics of the Beatles.

Older girls and women, too, have learned to channel their emotions more specifically on a fiancé or husband.

The Beatle craze is silly, but a coed safety valve, so laugh it off!

Pet Lion Wanders To End of His Trail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — that was in his way. There was the lion. Pharaoh the lion, king of beasts and all that, had no enemies within the dominion he ruled.

But when he strayed away, he found an enemy: Orange County Dist. Atty. Kenneth Williams.

The confrontation came about this way:

Mrs. Karen Fenn, owner of Pharaoh, called county officers to report that her 100-pound lion cub had jumped the back yard fence and disappeared.

Williams answered the call and with two armed deputies left for the wilds of suburban Tustin.

Murder Suspect Is Visited by Doctor

BOULDER (AP) — Chief Jailor M. D. Nelson said today that a man who visited Mrs. Joan Gardner Brown, who is held in Boulder County Jail charged with murder, actually was a Denver psychiatrist.

The jailer said he doesn't know the psychiatrist's name. The visit occurred Wednesday.

Mrs. Brown's attorney, Charles Williams, declined comment on the incident.

The 29-year old Mrs. Brown and 18-year old Charles R. Wolf of Aurora are charged with murder in the fatal shooting of 20-year old James M. Pearson, University of Colorado student. Pearson's body was found in the foothills south of Boulder March 16.

Mrs. Brown's mother visited the woman in jail Thursday and Friday, the jailer said.

Morocco King Threatened by Dissatisfaction

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

FEZ, Morocco (AP) — Dissatisfaction and anger are rising in Morocco, threatening the traditionalist government of King Hassan II.

The cities are seething with unrest. Young people are clamoring for a new deal. Their voice is a major factor since 50 per cent of Morocco's 12 million people are under 20.

For the West, the stakes are high. Morocco has been one of the few countries in the Arab world to remain pro-Western and in favor of free economy.

Last week, the tension spilled into the streets. Blood was shed in Casablanca and in this ancient university center where 6,000 students rioted under the towering ramparts of an Arab fortress.

The king made a brief trip to Casablanca and returned to the winter resort of Ifrane, guarded by his loyal Moorish guard. Direct telephone lines kept him in touch with centers of agitation. Some advisers were reported urging him to adopt reforms.

The left wing is attempting to exploit the trouble.

Government armored cars and machine guns stopped rampaging crowds in Casablanca, where the unofficial toll was more than 100 dead and some 450 injured.

Security forces remain on the alert in Casablanca, Rabat, and Fez.

More than 100 were injured in Fez in clashes with auxiliary military units and police. Students from the Karouine University and Moulay Idriss College are on a strike until those arrested are released. Other schools have joined them.

The government radio said more than 200 people were under arrest.

The rioting started with student protests against new regulations reducing the age at which students must leave high school. The students also complain that instruction is inadequate, that programs are frequently changed and that there aren't enough scholarships.

Unemployment is plaguing the nation and large numbers of high school graduates can find no jobs.

"Are we all to become tourist guides?" asked Mahjoub Ben Seddik, head of Morocco's largest labor union, the left-wing Union Marocain de Travail.

Workers in some factories in the Casablanca industrial complex work only one day a week. Supporters of the throne say drastic reforms are needed to preserve the country from major catastrophe.

The political situation is confused. The king is opposed by the left-wing National Union of Popular Forces and the traditionalist Istiqlal party.

Morocco is one of the few countries in Africa where a multi-party system has comparative freedom of expression.

The king's main strength is his popularity among the peasants and the loyalty of the tough, professional army.
